In the end, I found two tools that would do the job very well, and both are free. For web page screensavers, Live Screensaver Creator and LifeScreensaver Creator were a good fit. Live Screensaver Creator is the first one to come to my mind. Kitsune Screensaver Maker is a handy and easy-to-use program that enables you to make your own screensavers from a wide range of web pages. Kitsune Screensaver Maker supports three main methods of screensaver generation: 1) a URL list, 2) keywords, and 3) the path method. You can use a URL list to make up your list of web pages and import them to your computer as sources for screensaver designs. For creating a list, you need to type the URL(s) of the web pages you would like to mix together. To add to a list, simply press the 'Add URL' button. You can also use keywords for selecting websites and importing their web pages as sources. First, create a text file that contains all your keywords; you can write them down using the text editor or word processor of your choice. Then import this file as a source. You can also select a single page, specify the path to the page, and convert the page to a source for your screensaver. Use the 'Show/Hide Path' button to find and set the path for the source you want to use. All the built-in web pages of the Kitsune Screensaver Maker can be used as sources. You can also select other web pages by using web browser, downloading images, images from a file, and so on. Your work is saved as a screensaver, an executable file that you can run or import to your other screensaver software. You can preview your work by clicking the 'Preview' button. Note: Kitsune Screensaver Maker is a free screensaver maker, but the web pages from which you can select images as sources are limited.
