Creates robust, complicated passwords. You can use Falcon Password Generator to generate custom, elaborate and secure passwords. Custom is the first word that comes to mind when it comes to this app's potential, and it really does what it says. When you are finished creating your password, you can click "Create Password" and then "OK". You may have to wait a little while for your password to be created, but it's a very simple process, so you shouldn't have any difficulties. In addition, you can have your password sent to your email address via SMS, so you won't have to wait around for it to be generated. This is not just about creating passwords, but about creating passwords that are both secure and challenging for others to crack, which is just as important. When in doubt, you may as well make your password robust, which is exactly what this application will help you with. Provides a feature to generate random passwords. Creating custom passwords is just the first step of the process to keeping your accounts safe. You will need to be sure that any time you use your account you should also think about what kind of password you are going to use. If you are going to use your password to gain access to other accounts, you should not let anyone know your password and be as secure as possible. For this purpose, this application allows you to generate random passwords that are extremely hard to crack. This is an excellent feature of the application, so even if someone manages to get in your account, they won't be able to keep the information they have. You can actually try out as many passwords that you want, which is a nice feature. GadgetHut.com has posted up a list of the best Android apps of 2013. It is sure to make for some good reading. Is it ever a good idea to just use the same password for too many accounts? When we use the same password for everything from our email, to our social media accounts, to our online banking - you know, the accounts that contain our most sensitive information. We take it for granted that they are secure enough, that nobody can guess, crack or steal our account information. And then we go on to use the same password for other accounts such as online shopping, and online shopping of stuff. And that's just with the accounts that contain our personal information. I'm surprised that we aren't more concerned about the security of our social media accounts, that contain our contacts, that include our pictures, that reveal an awful lot about who we are and where we've been. One great way to regain security is to use random passcodes for your online accounts, and that's the purpose of Falcon Password Generator. What does Falcon Password Generator do? With Falcon Password Generator you can create random passcodes for any account you have. This could be your email, your social media accounts, your online banking - any account that you need to protect with a strong password. Here's a list of all the accounts you can use the tool for. Here's just a handful of examples of the accounts you can use the tool for: Social media accounts like Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. Email accounts like Gmail, Yahoo, Hotmail, Live, Outlook etc. Online shopping accounts like Amazon, Apple, Google, Microsoft, Safeway etc. Everything else that you can think of to create random passcodes for. What's really cool about Falcon Password Generator? It's not just a simple password generator, but it's actually many things at once. The first thing it does is help you create and generate random passcodes for a long list of online accounts, so that you don't have to do that on your own. The second thing it does is allow you to customize all those random passcodes in so many ways. For example, you could have it create specific numbers of characters for you, you could have it automatically generate numbers of characters, you could have it generate numbers of numbers, or you could even have it generate numbers and letters. You can even further customize the passcodes by getting the number of characters to be random, or semi-random, which would be the ideal way to make sure your account is secure. A secure password is a password that is not guessed instantly. That's why random passcodes are a huge
