Just go to the directory of your Monster Girl Quest game and extract the Save.zip inside you will find the game's save file (if you extract the patch) and a folder with the complete part files. So if you've done all parts you have the complete save file already. Enjoy! ;). RULES 1. This rule is to help level crafters by not "leveling up" something for everyone. If you want a little bit more experience points or you want more money or... You name it - everyone can get it! This is so we can stay on topic and will help level crafters. It is not my intention to cause drama with people nor am I trying to make it clear that some people are better than others. I'm simply choosing the best choices that I think are the best choices and that's all. Your opinion might be different,. I hope you enjoy the contest! 2. If you get a ban for a day or two, please make a note on your profile that you got a ban and explain. I've seen some CSR banning people for "no reason" so this is just to prevent that. A person will not be allowed to enter the contest or pm me the reason they got a ban. 3. You may enter as many times as you want, but please allow the staff time to approve all of your entries. If you PM me that you got an entry rejected, then it means that I have yet to approve your entry (or that's why they got banned). So I ask that you wait until everyone can enter, is there any more questions?. 4. When you submit your entry, you must also submit a completed entry form, or else I can't see it and it won't be added to the contest. This will give you some serious consideration for the prizes. 5. You have until next Sunday, May 14th 9:00PM CST (Central Standard Time) to submit your entries. Please be aware that if you send your entries before the time, they can't be entered. 6. The winners of this contest will be chosen by the staff. They may not post their choices. Please keep in mind that we may also choose the winners via private message. I will keep you updated. 7. The contest, and all other contests, will be open to every staff member. (Except for the person who initiated the contest) 8. Only the staff members who

[Emission tomography for detection of lung nodules and masses]. The evaluation of thoracic emission tomography (TET) is based on the study of radioactivity distribution within the tumor or nodule. In this article the reader is provided with an overview of the available publications dealing with the detection of thoracic tumors and nodules. The sensitivity of TET for the detection of lung tumors is reported to be 0.75 to 0.87. Computed tomography (CT) is the imaging method of choice for the evaluation of pulmonary nodules because of its availability, high sensitivity and low radiation exposure. Numerous publications refer to an improved detection sensitivity of TET compared to CT. However, the specificity is reported to be higher for CT than for TET. Tuesday, December 23, 2013 The past two years have not been kind to Chromebooks. They have been widely criticized as being poor substitutes for PCs, even OSspecific Chromebooks. However, you've probably heard that Google is giving them some attention. The company has been actively working on improving two of its most popular OSes: Chrome OS and Android. As you know, Chrome OS is Google's version of Linux and requires users to download and install the same web browser and a web server on every device. Android, on the other hand, is Google's version of Windows, and requires users to install a custom browser and a mobile operating system on the device. Both are easy to use, but with limited customizability. Though the two are not entirely the same, the underlying technology is very similar and several Chrome OS apps work on Android devices. Although a seamless and hassle-free integration might be nice, Google has been keeping things more complicated than it needs to be. This week, Google is giving both Chrome OS and Android some love with two big updates: the Chrome OS beta launch and the Android 4.3 release. We don't know a whole lot about the latter, as it was only announced at Google's I/O conference a few days ago. We're looking forward to seeing what the new features include, but we do know what the Chrome OS update will bring. That's right: long-awaited extensions support. In addition to extensions, Google
