Field of the Invention This invention relates to a method and an apparatus for identifying media which bear a print on a surface thereof, as well as the media so identified. More particularly, this invention relates to a method for identifying the type of information which is to be printed on the media as it is conveyed in a printing process, and an apparatus for carrying out the method. 2. Description of the Prior Art In a typical printing process using a conventional document processing machine, a plurality of documents are inserted into the document processing machine and printed thereon, after which the documents are ejected by the machine. It is desirable to eject documents with a particular type of information from the machine. For example, where the documents are of a type which have a value associated with them, it is important to determine the type of information printed on the document, in order to discern the value of the document. While the type of information printed on the document may be apparent, a frequently occurring problem is that of documents being printed with a document identification code which is not readable or machine-readable. There are many known techniques for identifying the type of information printed on a document. For example,
