A game in which there is no player character, but instead a number of playable characters that are depicted on the top of different hats. The player aims for the coat with the character on top, which is indicated by a circle in the hat in the bottom right corner. When the player has reached the target character, the game ends. Playable Characters: - Will St. John - Francesca Spinetti - A.K.A. - Duncan Iggy - Norman Wong - Uncle Maynard - Derek Rude - Darius Oliphant - Mr. W - Otto Alph - Hercz Greene - Cosm This pack contains five new electro swing tracks to match the five hats in the game! With a style similar to the original jazz band 'Chapeau', you'll know just what kind of madness is going to ensue from just listening to these songs! Let's Party A More Than Enough Party Feelin' Groovy Have a Happy Party Happy Birthday Chapeau is the name of the game "Are you sure there isn't more I could do?" Well of course, Mr. Boozy, I've already done so much. "Everything we have is yours! We can burn it all." I know. "I need some time to think!" Sure. That's alright. Just one thing. "Don't beat yourself up over this! You have done your best! You really have! I'm so proud of you! Now, there's nothing you can do about it. Nothing. "Oh! Thank you, Mr. Boozy! I'm going to do my best to be the best Mr. Boozy client that I can be!" The Catman walks away and Mr. Boozy continues his clanking sound. Chapeau is a very peculiar game indeed. The original game tells the story of a hat that has the souls of the clients it's attached to! It's an unforgettable adventure through a bizarre cartoon world full of antics and unexpected events! Q: Is there a way to create a new hash based on keys and values from an existing hash? Is there a ruby way to create a new hash from existing keys and values? I am creating a class that represents a generic connection and has a number of attributes that will be the same in all of the class instances. However, each one of those attributes is populated with a different values. This is working fine and I have a resulting hash like this. `connection_hash = { :key1 => "value1", :key2 => "value2", :key3 => "value3" :key4 => "value4" }` What I would like to do is do this without the empty key-value pairs in the `connection_hash`. I have a method that I would like to use to dynamically create the hash based on the existing hash. So, after iteration, I would end up with something like this. `connection_hash = { :key1 => "value1", :key2 => "value2", :key3 => "value3" :key4 => "value4" :key5 => ["value5", "value6"] }` Thank you

A: You can build your new hash by just merging the existing one and the other values: `hash = connection_hash.merge(values)` If you have an unknown number of values you can use the "extend" method: `values = ["value5", "value6"] hash = connection_hash`
