Minnesota Golden Gophers football team The 1916 Minnesota Golden Gophers football team represented the University of Minnesota in the 1916 Big Ten Conference football season. In their third year under head coach Henry L. Williams, the Golden Gophers compiled a 5–1–2 record (2–0–1 against conference opponents), finished in second place in the Big Ten, and outscored all opponents by a combined total of 126 to 58. The 1916 season was the final season for Williams as head football coach. In 1917, he was hired as an assistant at the University of Michigan. He returned to the University of Minnesota in 1918 and became the school's head coach. Total attendance for all Gopher games in 1916 was 118,585, which averaged out to just under 11,000 per game. The largest crowd was the homecoming game against Illinois at 38,878. Minnesota's next largest homecoming crowds were against Indiana (31,177), Wisconsin (24,822), Michigan (21,480), and Purdue (19,437). The school's smallest homecoming crowds were against Wisconsin (18,958), Michigan State (15,308), and Iowa (10,129). Schedule References Minnesota Category:Minnesota Golden Gophers football Childhood tuberculosis (TB) remains a leading cause of death among children in parts of the world. One of the currently used methods for TB diagnosis is sputum microscopy which, in many cases, is not reliable, leading to under diagnosis and misdiagnosis. In addition, its low sensitivity in children warrants careful use. Yet, new diagnostic tests are needed that provide an accurate TB diagnosis, one that can be performed easily, cheaply, and cheaply. The methods of choice to diagnose TB infections in children are the tuberculin skin test (TST) and interferon-gamma release assays (IGRAs).

variable of a type instantiated from a supertype I'm trying to understand variable type declaration and found that an interesting example is using both Polymorphism (polymorphic type) and generics (parametrized types, which is a subtype of Polymorphic type). I read about instance method's variable type declaration and how it is set based on the type of the receiver (the type of the class in which the instance method is declared). For example: public void method(SomeType someType) { String str =...; } If I call the method above with a SomeType someType I know that the variable str will be of type String. The question is: How is it possible to declare a variable of an unknown type (but from the same supertype)?

public void method(SomeType someType) { ?
    someType.type() :...; // 6d1f23a050
