Sapong is the only Red to play every minute in the two goals that knocked the Red-and-White out of the 2015 Audi MLS Cup Playoffs. With Sapong's absence in Seattle, the Red-and-White have lost any hope of defending their crown. An injury to Sapong, who was tied for fifth on the team in goals, has finally cost the Red-and-White a playoff spot. Michael Bradley, Maurice Edu, Danny Williams and Graham Zusi are all set to start for the Red-and-White at least once during the first leg on Thursday night at CenturyLink Field. "I think that we'll have a strength in midfield," Bradley said. "We had our problems against Portland in the second leg in the knockout, but we still had a great shot at winning that game. We need to be as aggressive as we can be because we know what they'll give us." Bradley has also played a vital role in the Red-and-White's success as of late. Three of the Red-and-White's last five matches have been wins, with Bradley scoring twice in the last two matches in particular. "He's such a good player," Bradley said. "Every time I step on the field I expect to do well and it's a pleasure to be on the field with him, I think. It's good to know that there's a place in that team for a guy who can do that." Although the Red-and-White has achieved some success by working with Bradley, Zusi and Williams, problems have come as they have come too. "Graham is always coming out and it gives the three of us on the field a lot of freedom because he's always making good runs," Bradley said. "He's coming off the back and joining the attack. Graham has always done a good job for us."
