The main thing I'm looking for is a free, publicly available alternative. We don't want to have to pay for something simply because we might need to access it for free because it won't be available to us as a subscription, and will only be available online. We do have SQL Server 2008 R2 - 2012 Enterprise Edition but we are currently running on 2008R2. AFAIK, we are looking for: Online - web access to the report server Standalone - a licensed SSRS installation and not dependent on report server Free - we don't want to pay for a solution simply because a corporate policy won't allow us to do it Integration - we are going to be writing our own integration so that we can connect to each user's database for validation of data. A: Free means free for the public, and Microsoft offers free access to MSDN Premium, but not free for everybody...which is a good thing. Anyway, 3, 5 and 6 are not possible. But then you ask if there is a "public" alternative, then there is, but it will not be easy to find. MSDN Access to SSRS can be used to create reports which can be distributed to others. If the "others" are like you will be, then you don't need any subscription, just a URL. If they will be a bit more "special" (read: needs security and/or data source) then you need to distribute the report in the format that they are expecting.
